DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(c), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(c) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 05 October 2007 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Specifically, nowhere is plywood taught.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 11-16, 19, and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nelson (3407634).

Nelson teaches an apparatus (Figures 1-3) for stretching and drying a pelt on a rigid planar plywood member having a front and rear side, and a plurality of perforations extending therethrough arranged in an oval shape, with a smaller oval shape found within (Figure 1), the perforations being predrilled and beveled (Column 3, lines 22-27), allowing for introduction of a nail with a sharp tip, capable of being removed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 17, 18, and 21-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nelson in view of the Website (www.pumpkinlady.com).

Nelson essentially teaches the invention as detailed above, including the method of providing the apparatus, but fails to specifically teach how the ovals are formed on the plywood. The website, however, teaches that it is well known to utilize a template to form perforations on an item in an organized manner (Steps 4 and 5). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, to have utilized a template as taught by the website so as to place the perforations on the rigid planar member in an organized manner. In regards to an angled perforation, Nelson teaches an understanding of locking a rigid member in an angled slot, as can be seen by detail 35, and the ordinarily skilled artisan would have known to angle the perforations also, so as to align the stresses caused by drying along the length of the perforation, so as to prevent cracking stress.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments filed 05 October 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that Nelson teaches oval frames, while his invention is more like a "pegboard". Examiner's position is that nothing found in the claim language prevents Nelson from anticipating the invention. In regards to Applicant's argument concerning the "template", such has been addressed above.
